If this comes to pass (which is not certain), this presumably would alter the effective date of any ordinance subject to referendum.

The LOI provisions guaranteeing the Mayor's support for the deal may come under special scrutiny (as directly conflicting with the chief executive's ability to negotiate and/or enforce city contracts, etc.). Senator Skindell's letter to Council outlines several arguments along these lines. I do not know whether he or some other party intends to file such complaints, but we can expect them to come in the near future.

Failing this, we might face the argument that we have a conflict that would require us to abstain from voting on City legislation on this topic.
